Scalable Business Model

Trivium's business model is such that we contract out to over 1,500 installation partners in North America and over 5,000 partners globally. With approximately 50,000 virtual technicians at our disposal, Trivium is able to ramp-up for high volume projects in very short periods of time. In 2008, Trivium performed de-installation activities at 500 sites for a U.S. customer within a single day, with only one week to ramp-up for the project. The success of the project was attributed to Trivium's project management team as well as Trivium's project management tools to ensure that there was clear communication from the site level to the customer. The project was a 100% success.
